MWPF comes out v i c t o r i o u s in a court battle against Xulu attorneys

Mineworkers Provident Fund's core values as a fund are respect, dignity and legacy where the Fund is driven by its desire to leave something of value to the next generation. It is with this in mind that MWPF strives to serve members and beneficiaries with utmost respect and transparency and thus go the extra mile to ensure that members and beneficiaries get what is due to them as speedily as possible.

Unfortunately, not everyone shares this vision. While MWPF does their best to ensure benefits are paid out accordingly, there are delinquents who plot and even succeed to steal some of the members life-long savings by exploiting MWPF members.

When such cases come to the attention of MWPF, they leave no stone unturned to ensure that such is stopped, and justice is served. MWPF is pleased to inform you that Xulu attorneys took the fund to court due to the Fund's refusal of paying into a third-party account. The case was opened in 2014 and after a gruelling four years, MWPF is excited to announce that the court ruled in the Fund's favour.

MWPF would like to urge members to be vigilant and contact Mineworkers Provident Fund directly should they want to make a claim. The Fund will never pay a member's benefits under any circumstance into a third-party account. It is also important to note that MWPF does not charge any money for processing claims or to find out if there are benefits due to you. If you are asked for money to help speed up payment by anyone, please report this to head office as it is not the way MWPF operates.
